

WA INDOOR TARGET SET-UP OPTIONS

Depending on entry numbers and archers' preferences, organisers may need to use any of the following variations, each of which is 'legal' according to World Archery's rules for a WA 18m Indoor. (See Images 12, 13 and 14 in the Appendices to World Archery Rules, Book 3, April 2014.)

Where possible, assign 4 archers to a target butt. Irrespective of the amount of space or number of competitors at the event, organisers must provide 'room for error' in that archers have to aim at the correct face.

For the WA round Archers assigned to target faces A and B shoot first. Next end the order of shooting alternates to C and D. This alternating shooting continues for the entire round.

In the World Archery Indoor round only a single sport or three spot vertical target face is shot.

If 3 archers are allocated to a target, the set-up remains as for 4 archers. Target 'D' remains unused for the competition, as happens with 4 face set-up in field with 3 archers competing.

If, for some reason, only 2 archers are allocated to a target butt, they shoot as A and B and the other 2 faces remain unshot throughout the event. However, the target butt should still have 4 faces affixed to it.

Other face configurations allowed, for 3 or 4 archers, are shown below (faces may also be affixed in the reverse order, swapping right to left).

TARGET FACE CONFIGURATION – WA Indoor Round

NOTE:

Irrespective of the numbers printed on the 3-spot faces, spots may be shot in any order.

On 3-spot faces, only one arrow is allowed per spot.

If more than 3 arrows (total) are shot, only the 3 lowest scores are recorded.

Additional arrow/s will be recorded as a 'M'.

Any arrows shot out of time cause the loss of the highest scoring arrow of the end.

AUSTRALIAN INDOOR TARGET SET-UP OPTIONS

Archers are assigned to a target for this event and choose between themselves who shoots left or right, top or bottom. Archers select and set-up their own target faces.

Archers A and B always shoot first for the first 30 arrows and shoot at the bottom two target faces (Left and Right).

After the first round of 30 arrows has been shot, archers will change their target faces from top to bottom and bottom to top. The archer's whose target face was at the top and has now changed to the bottom will shoot first for the final 30 arrows.

If there are 3 archers (A, B and C) allocated to a butt, all 4 faces still need to be changed from top to bottom and bottom to top after the first 30 arrows has been shot, with one face remaining unshot throughout.

If only 2 archers are allocated to a butt, the archers become C (top) and A (bottom) but still rotate their individual targets after the first round, leaving the B & D faces alone.

In the Australian Indoor, only single spot or triangular 3-spot (Vegas style) target faces are permitted. (For set-up tolerances, see World Archery Rules, 2014, images 12 and 13, in Appendix to Book 3)

TARGET FACE CONFIGURATION – Australian Indoor Round

(NOTE: The variations showing mixed target types may also be placed on the butt in the reverse order of what is illustrated, left to right or top to bottom.)